What is the role?

Working in a small team within the busy Housing Needs, Advice & Support (HNAS) service, you'll be working with members of the public who are facing homelessness and require supported housing. These may be some of the most vulnerable members of society and you will regularly meet and work with customers with complex needs.

You'll play a crucial role in assessing customers who have been referred for temporary or supported accommodation, often as a means to prevent or relieve their homelessness. You will be involved in risk assessment, identifying specific requirements and considering support needs. You will make recommendations over where customers should be placed within the temporary and supported accommodation services available that HNAS commissions.

You will work in partnership with our contracted support providers to ensure support is of good quality and targeted at those most in need; identifying where other agencies and professionals working with customers may be pulled in to provide a wider team of support.

You'll understand the complexities of homelessness, and the diversity of those affected by it, recognising the need to put the individual at the centre of your work. You'll provide tailored plans which meet the varying needs of your customers, promoting the sustainment of supported accommodation placements and engagement with the support on offer for those in need.

This is a highly varied and interesting role, which has daily interactions with a wide range of partner agencies across both statutory and non-statutory sectors. A such, you'll be given plenty of opportunities to further develop your skills and understanding across a diverse range of areas that could include housing, homelessness and social care; multi-agency safeguarding processes and frameworks; service delivery and improvement, commissioning and contract management.

You will be responsible for:

- Fully understanding the circumstances of customers who have been identified as being in need of supported accommodation;
- Undertaking a comprehensive assessment, working where relevant with partner agencies such as health, children's services, probation and drug and alcohol services;

- Assembling a bespoke support plan and identifying any risks to be managed by the contracted supported or temporary accommodation provider;
- Working with accommodation and support providers to identify and develop onward housing plans for people living in supported or temporary placements, helping to understand and overcome any barriers to customers moving on from their accommodation;
- Liaising with commissioned support providers to understand and manage demand for their services; exploring data to identify trends which inform ongoing monitoring and future planning for future supported or temporary accommodation contracts;
- Supporting colleagues within the Housing Needs, Advice and Support section to ensure the service meets its statutory duties in preventing and relieving people's homelessness, whilst also making best use of the resources available.

The role will involve a significant amount of time working out of the office, as you engage with customers in the community, or those already placed in supported housing. You will also be required to represent the service at multi-agency case conferences and planning meetings, and there may be an occasional need to work outside normal office hours, to respond to urgent situations or customers who are particularly difficult to engage with.

As such, you will be able to work independently, capable of managing your own time and prioritising tasks effectively. You will be able complete pieces of work and make appropriate decisions by applying the correct policy and legislative framework, showing clear and structured reasoning. You will be able to work with limited daily supervision, yet be able to identify when it is appropriate to pull on your manager for guidance and support. You will follow lone-working procedures and remain vigilant of personal safety issues.

You will have strong interpersonal skills, with an ability to relate to service users, professionals and colleagues alike, and maintain productive working relationships. You will have the ability to gain the trust and cooperation of other agencies and get the best from them, and you will be able to engage with customers in a sensitive and non-judgmental manner.

You will be able to respond to the various issues presented by working with vulnerable homeless individuals, and be able to remain focused and objective when confronted with emotionally-charged conversations or challenging situations.

You'll also be able to keep accurate and up-to-date records using a variety of IT systems, and make yourself available to support colleagues in the HNAS service.
